

BOOK ORDER FORM

John Schilling's new book is a gripping story of 'local boy does good'. A Menomonee Falls native, Schilling was a catalyst for the series of "whistleblower" cases that ripped through the healthcare industry in the late 1990s.

Undercover gives a compelling account of one man's decision to risk everything for the greater good. The book reveals the personal side of a thankless role that resulted, ultimately, in justice.

Meet John in person on May 21, 2008 at a book signing event hosted by his alma mater. Call St. Mary Parish School at 251 1050, ext. 108 and reserve your seat today.

"Schilling is one of three socially conscious writers from Wisconsin who have recently published books examining serious issues of ethics and security..."

It was...a long, stressful and chancy road, as Schilling tells it in this exciting story of an ordinary man who finds himself in extraordinary circumstances. You could say it's a rags-to-riches morality tale, with good emerging victorious..."
